

WALTER REYNOLDS WRITES

Editor Star - Before my departure for the training camps I wish to tell all my Alleghany friends good-bye through your columns.

As it is now war times, we must do our bit; first, we must work six days in the week, in order to feed the boys in the trenches and camps. Second we must buy Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps to cloth and equip them and furnish guns and ammunition so that they can fight their best. Third, we must help the Red Cross with money and other things that they will need to take care of them when wounded.

We must be patriotic, be loyal, be 100 per cent Americans.

We will win this war if it takes the last dollar of ours to get the last Hun over there.

If you fellows at home will do your bit we will crow "Yankee Doodle" in Berlin before we come back home.

Good-bye to all my friends. Open up your hearts and not just do your bit, but do all that is in your power and we will soon be at peace.
